plaintiff's attorney, Michael Jacobs, in the com-plaint, show that John P Mantel in 1889 loaned $11,000 to Gleason, who gave as security for the advance a mortgage on real estate on the Grand Boulevard, Astoria.

Jean Marie Mantel, in 1894, as trustee of his brother's estate, brought a suit to foreclose the mortgage, and had judgment entered on September 17 of that year, under which the property was ordered to be sold. The $11,000 loaned by John B Mantel was to be paid to J. M. Mantel as trustee, and in case of any deficiency arising a judgment for the shortage was to be entered against Gleahis liability, brought the present suit, in which O'Neill is also named as a defendant, to have the his liability, brought the present suit, in which O'Neill is also named as a defendant, to have the deficiency judgment declared unpaid, and to composite surrender of the satisfaction piece by the Long Island City Mayor. O'Neill, the complaint says, got the satisfaction piece on the understanding that, if he gave it to Gleason, the amount of the judgment was to be immediately paid by him. O'Neill, however, it is alleged, upon some fraudulent and collusive understanding with Gleason, delivered to Gleason the satisfaction piece, and did not receive the amount of the judgment.

Mr. Jacobs alleges that no portion of the deficiency judgment has been paid, and that the satisfaction piece, though unrecorded, is held by Gleason, who, when it suits his convenience, will, it is averred, use it to defraud the plaintiff of his just claim. The complaint further alleges, upon information and belief, that "the said Patrick J. Gleason is at the present time financially embarrassed, so that issuing execution would result in no benefit to the plaintiff."

A demand for the cancellation of the satisfaction piece has, it is stated, been ignored by Gleason and O'Neill, and O'Neill is said to be pecuniarily irresponsible for damages for the injury done by him to the plaintiff.

"The judgment against Mayor Gleason," said Mr. Jacobs yesterday, "still stands, even though he holds the satisfaction piece. The defendants were utterly unjustified and acted in a most unwarrantable manner in giving it up. Mr. O'Neill is now in Europe, but will be served with the papers on his return."

THE DEATH OF "ROBIN HOOD." The second and last week of the Bostonians at Manhattan Beach derives especial interest the fact that this is the final chapter of "Robin Hood's" long history. In addition to the "Sereade" the Bostonians have several other new operas of whose merits they are confident, and in ducing these later works they intend to place the famous freebooter of Sherwood Forest on the shelf. Therefore, what may be termed the funeral of Robin Hood and Maid Marian, Friar Tuck and Little John, Will Scarlet, and the comical Sheriff of Nottingham will take place at Manhattan Beach next Saturday night.
